Levine Building latest

Old Members and Friends should have recently received a booklet giving an update about the Levine Building with the most recent Newsletter—also available on the website. The site has undergone a tremendous transformation over the last year and the project remains on schedule—students will be accommodated in some parts of the building from January, and it will be fully opened later next year, before the start of Michaelmas term.

Total Raised for the Levine Building (August 2021)

The total cost of the Levine Building will be £30 million. The college committed to half of the cost on the basis that the fundraising campaign would raise the additional £15 million. To date, more than £13.8 million (92 per cent) of the fundraising target has been met, thanks to the generosity of 925 Old Members, Friends and organisations (this figure also includes the interest raised on the earliest donations made to the campaign).

Thank you again to everyone who has contributed; your support is deeply appreciated.

The Levine Building is likely to be the last building of this scale to be constructed on Trinity's historic main site. Designed to serve the college for hundreds of years, it will transform the experience of Trinity for the whole college community—students, Fellows, staff, Old Members and Friends—and the wider-public.

As we enter into the final stages of the project, both in terms of the build and the fundraising campaign, we strongly urge anyone wishing to contribute to do so now. Every gift, whatever the amount, will make a difference.

Visiting Trinity

The college grounds are once again open for Old Members to visit.

However, given the continuing high number of COVID-19 cases in Oxford, the college remains generally closed to visitors and you are asked to please book ahead through the Alumni & Development Office (or, if planning a visit at short notice with no opportunity to contact the office during working hours, by phoning the Lodge on 01865 279900).

The dining hall and chapel remain closed to all visitors for the time being.

Update your details

You can check that your contact details are up to date and change the ways in which Trinity contacts you by email by updating your preferences on the Trinity Net update page (for Old Members with a log in) or by emailing the Alumni & Development Office.

Ian Thorne (1966)

We have been asked by the family of the late Ian Thorne to share details of the service of thanksgiving for his life, which is to be held at St Mary Magdalene church, Newark, on Tuesday 21 September, at 2pm.

Trinity Society AGM

The Trinity Society AGM will take place on Monday, 27 September at 6 pm (BST, UTC+1)

As last year, the meeting will be conducted online via Zoom, if you would like to attend, please email Sarah Jenkinson to receive the details.

Proposals from the chairman, Peter Strawbridge (1976), can be found on Trinity Net.

Events

We have decided to continue with online rather than in-person events for Michaelmas term, which unfortunately means there will again be no Trinity Weekend this year.

Another series of Trinity Tomes talks is being planned, hearing from Old Members and academics about their recently published works, and we are considering another wine or beer tasting event. There will be an online event for benefactors who gave in the 2020-21 financial year. Further information will follow.

Recordings of several previous events can be found on the YouTube channel. If you have any suggestions for other online events you would like to see during the autumn, please get in touch with Sarah Jenkinson.

Garden Competition

How does your garden grow? A reminder that entries for the garden photo competition need to be submitted by 31 August.

No gardening required (unless you want to!). Just snap a photo of your planting prowess or the outdoor space you enjoy.

Details are on the website.
